

Fall 2013

Ego-syntonic

Katy Lederer

Follow this and additional works at: <https://ir.uiowa.edu/iowareview>

Part of the Creative Writing Commons

Recommended Citation

Lederer, Katy. "Ego-syntonic." The Iowa Review 43.2 (2013): 100-100. Web.
Available at: <https://doi.org/10.17077/0021-065X.7402>

This Contents is brought to you for free and open access by Iowa Research Online. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Iowa Review by an authorized administrator of Iowa Research Online. For more information, please contact lib-ir@uiowa.edu.

KATY LEDERER

EGO-SYNTONIC

We're in a privacy, we call it that,
but really, it is pain.

You pretend, or pre-tend, like a gardener, ferns curling,
the fence on the imminent mend.

Who are these people in your garden?
How their faces have absconded with civility.

To think of the rain: how it always pours down, never up.
Where are you, God?

100 I can see you as if through a window, reflected in glass.
It turns you opposite, the pane.

And this my daily bread, I now eat in repose
as a corpse would.